MRS. HARTWICK BUYS HANSON PINES

MAKES GIFT TO STATE FOR STATE PARK

To Be Memorial to Late Maj. Hartwick

Mrs. Edward E. Hartwick of Ann Arbor has purchased the Hanson Pines from Salling Hanson Co., and presented them to the State of Michigan to be used for a public park and a memorial to her late husband, Maj. Edward E. Hartwick, who died while serving in the A. E. F. in France, March 31, 1918.

The park embraces about 80 acres of virgin pine forest and a total of about 8,000 acres of cut-over land that at one time produced the finest white pine forest Michigan has ever seen. It is to be known as the Edward E. Hartwick Pines park, and the state has agreed to erect on the land a log constructed memorial building, which will house a complete history of the lumbering operations in Michigan, including all of the tools and implements used in the lumbering operations.

The Hanson pines, so-called, were purchased by the Salling Hanson Co. in 1887 along with other timber, and the present stand was never touched. Efforts to obtain it for the state have been made for years. Last winter a bill was introduced in the legislature calling for an $82,500 appropriation for the purchase of the timber, but the bill failed. Later the Salling Hanson Company reduced this price to $50,000, and the state was about ready to make the purchase.

Mrs. Hartwick, the donor of the property, is the daughter of the late Nels Michelson, who was an official of the Salling Hanson Company. Mrs. Hartwick, since the death of her husband, has had in mind a memorial. She had been approached by the University of Michigan and other interests with a request that she construct a building. The fact, however, that both her own as well as Mr. Hartwick's people were pioneer lumbering men of Michigan, led her to purchase the tract from the Salling Hanson Co., and give it to the state, as a memorial to her husband, and in memory of her father.

Under the terms of the gift, the state will construct the memorial building on the property. The lumbering interests of Michigan agreed to cooperate in obtaining the relics of the lumbering days which will be installed in the building. The state will also construct an improved highway from Grayling to the property, and facilities for the care of the visitors in the new park.

Thus by the generosity of Mrs. Hartwick the perpetuity of this magnificent tract of pine forest, the last standing vestige of Michigan's old piny days, is assured. The people of Michigan and other states may be privileged to come here and enjoy the grandeur of the huge stately pine trees and to visualize in their minds how Northern Michigan looked fifty years ago.

Some day, if those responsible for the conservation and restoration of this feature of Michigan's natural resources do what seems to be their duty, we may again claim to be a lumber state, but that will not be within the span of life of the present generations. In the meantime the Hanson pines are to be spared and now have become the property of the people of Michigan. Already a representative of the state is on the ground preparing to protect the timber and later a memorial building will be erected in honor of Major Hartwick and in memory of the father of Mrs. Hartwick, the late Nels Michelson. The Michelson Memorial church in Grayling was built by Mr. Michelson for the people of Grayling as a memorial to his departed wife and now also stands as a memorial to the donor. This is one of the most beautiful church edifices anywhere in Michigan, not in magnitude, but in its architecture, appointments and completeness.

Major Edward E. Hartwick was born in Grayling and had the honor of being the first white child to open his eyes to the world in what was then a newly established lumbering town. He received his education in Grayling school and later graduated from West Point, and during the Spanish war was in charge of a regiment of infantry. He gave up his military career to be with his family and for many years resided in Detroit. When his country again needed his services he was one of the first to offer his assistance and was commissioned a colonel and placed in charge of a regiment of engineers. It was while in France that he was stricken with pneumonia from which disease he did not recover. A memorial to one of Grayling's own sons here in the place where he spent his boyhood days seems highly fitting and also very pleasing to his old friends who still knew Ed when he was a young lad and a young man among us. And the tender tribute the gift offers the father of the donor meets with loving accord among our people.

Mrs. Hartwick is to be congratulated on her thoughtfulness which could only have been inspired by the love she holds for her husband and her father. And her act surely meets the deepest approbation and deserves the most sincere thanks of those people of Grayling who know the family. And the blessing of this great benevolence is to be extended to all the people of this wonderful state—ours to enjoy for many generations.

We feel confident that the authorities in the state government who will have the matter in charge will erect at the Edward E. Hartwick pines a memorial that will be in keeping with plans and hopes of the donor.

A Michigan man was sentenced to prison for life for possession of a pint of gin, it being his fourth law violation. He will now have ample time to meditate on what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina.

24 MESS HALLS TO BE BUILT

War Dept. Financing Cost of Construction

The war department has authorized funds for the construction of 24 mess halls and kitchens for the Michigan National Guard at the Hanson State Military Reservation, Camp Grayling, Michigan.

Colonel LeRoy Pearson, Quartermaster General and U. S. Property & Disbursing Officer, 208 Capital National Bank Building, Lansing, Michigan, is now inviting bids for the construction of these buildings. The bids are to be opened October 21st next, and it is hoped to award the contract and commence work on the buildings this fall and have them completed next spring, prior to the annual encampment.

The new buildings are to provide dining halls for the 19th Field Artillery of Lansing and vicinity, mess halls and kitchens for the 182nd Field Artillery of Detroit, and for units of the medical regiment and infantry brigade.

TRAINING SCHOOL GRADUATING NURSES

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM
OCTOBER 19

Another group of young ladies have completed their studies in the Mercy Hospital Training school, and will receive their diplomas Wednesday evening, October 19th. A special commencement program has been arranged for the benefit of the public, which will be given in the school auditorium, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. At 8:00 o'clock there will be a reception in honor of the graduates who are as follows:

Miss Eva J. Hendrickson.
Miss Ellen M. Johnson.
Miss Fedora M. Montour.

The public is invited to attend the exercises and reception.

Twenty-one young ladies have graduated from the Mercy Hospital Training school, and it is much to the credit of Mercy hospital to know that not one single graduate failed to pass the state examinations. Student nurses are trained in almost every line of illness and surgery with exception of contagious diseases. The success of the students is due largely to the instructions received from the medical staff of the hospital—Drs. Keyport and Clippert, as well as the Sisters in charge who are graduate nurses with long years of training and practical experience.

The roster of graduates from this splendid school are as follows:

Catherine O'Leary (Mrs. J. P. Winters), Jackson, Mich.
Alice Corrigan (Mrs. M. P. Pinto), Baltimore, Md.
Maud Tetu (Mrs. Wm. Aberley), Pasadena, Calif.
Virginia Ostling Chicago Ill.
Blanche Blondin (Mrs. Jos. Riess), Ludington, Mich.
Helen Rivard (Mrs. Herbert Green), Detroit, Mich.
Lois Larive (Mrs. Jos. Gibbon), Blanche Cypress, Detroit, Mich.
Idessa Johnson (Mrs. Fred Anderson), Flint, Mich.
Anne LaMotte (Mrs. Lawrence Malloy), Detroit, Mich.
Johanna Jensen (Mrs. Maurice Gorman), Grayling, Mich.
Edith Wellington, Lansing, Mich.
Helen Flynn (Mrs. M. Corwin), Grayling, Mich.
Rosina Kelling, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Nora Humphrey.
Anna Fisher, Cheboygan, Mich.
Rose Cassidy, Grayling, Mich.
Michelyn Amborski, Gaylord, Mich.

Graduates of October, 1927

Eva J. Hendrickson, Grayling, Mich.
Ellen M. Johnson, Grayling, Mich.
Fedora M. Montour, Grayling, Mich.

This is the eleventh class to graduate from this institution.

NEW SCHOOL LAWS HAVING LOCAL INTEREST

List of new school laws taking effect this month which have special local application:

Act No. 59—A tax on state land for schools. This act provides for a tax of ten cents an acre on state lands and for the apportionment of this tax between the township and school district where the land is located. The tax is paid by the state.

Act No. 122—County normal training classes. This act provides that school districts maintaining county normal classes shall receive three thousand dollars annually from the state instead of two thousand dollars. This act was given immediate effect.

Act No. 293—The Turner bill. The distribution of one million dollars to the poorer school districts of the state. This act provides that all school districts having a tax rate of ten mills or more on the dollar and having more children per hundred thousand valuation than the average number per hundred thousand of valuation for the state as a whole, shall share in the million dollars appropriated. This act was given immediate effect.

Act No. 326—Teachers' life certificates. This act amends the law governing the granting of certificates to those who have received a bachelor's, master's or doctor's degree from a college or university to provide that such certificate shall be a life certificate if the college or university provides for practice teaching and observation and the course of study, and the practice teaching and observation has been approved by the state board of education.

Act No. 135—Teachers' retirement fund law. This act amends the retirement fund law which applies to all districts except Detroit to provide that a person must have attained the age of sixty years before he can draw an annuity and to provide that the retirement fund board may increase the annual contributions to ten dollars for those who have taught five years or less; to twenty dollars for those who have taught more than five years, but less than fifteen years, and to thirty dollars for those who have taught fifteen years or more. This act was given immediate effect.

Dog and Pony Show

GRAYLING MERCHANTS SPONSOR FREE ATTRACTION

A special attraction on the streets of Grayling next Saturday afternoon will be Van's Dog and Pony Show, which will give a free exhibition at 2 o'clock, Central Standard time. This free amusement feature is sponsored by the Grayling merchants.

Van's Dog and Pony show is an organization which has been playing on the big time vaudeville circuit, but owing to an open date has been persuaded to come to Grayling Saturday afternoon. The organization comes here highly recommended and should draw a large crowd. There will be no admittance charge and everyone is cordially invited to witness the performance which will be given on a large stage erected for the purpose.

Bring the kiddies along when you come to Grayling Saturday and let them enjoy the tricks of these well-trained little animals which always prove a delight to old and young alike.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

To the People of Michigan:

More than Seventeen Million Dollars worth of property was destroyed by fire in this State last year. The removal of much of that vast sum from the assessment rolls added the taxing of millions of values to the purses of others, many of whom themselves were energetic in preventing the spread of fire on their premises. In that year flames claimed the lives of three hundred thirty-nine Michigan people. Lives of many others were imperiled. Competent investigators counsel that seventy-six per cent of these disasters would have been prevented, had diligence and care been exercised. The effect of fire waste is state-wide, though the task of overwhelming the evil lies almost wholly with the individual, with the farmer, the villager and the city dweller.

Fire prevention is vital to public welfare. To stimulate consciousness of the continual presence of danger from that source, and with the object of helping to prevent in some measure needless waste of life and property, I do especially designate the

October Ninth to October Fifteenth, 1927

Michigan Fire Prevention Week

Citizens, individually and collectively, are urged to make special effort during that week to reduce hazard from fire, to dispose of accumulated waste material, inspect heating equipment, chimneys, wiring and ventilation; and make repairs necessary to safety. Public and private places where people congregate should be examined. Safeguards necessary to protect life and property should be provided. Fire drills and educational exercises in schools will be fitting. Press and pulpit, always our support in furtherance of mercy, wisdom and safety, now again are relied upon to render their quota of inspiration for the common security. Through reasonable endeavor, citizens may make the coming twelve months the year of their greatest conservation.

Given under my hand and the seal (Seal) of the State, at the Capitol in Lansing, this Eighth Day of September, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-seven, and of the State of Michigan the Ninetieth.

FRED W. GREEN,
Governor.

JOHN S. HAGGERTY,
Secretary of State.

YEAR BOOKS READY FOR DISTRIBUTORS

Congressman Woodruff wishes to inform his constituents that the 1926 edition of the Agricultural year book is available for free distribution. Also that copies of the 1927-28 game laws, and laws relating to fur bearing animals may be had through his office for the asking.

Requests should be addressed to Hon. Roy O. Woodruff, Room 506, House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Michelson Memorial Church

John Wilfred Greenwood, Minister

October 16th, 1927

Starting next Sunday, the pastor will give a series of addresses on "Disciples of Jesus—Snapshots." The first address will be on the unusual character—Peter. You can't afford to miss this series of Twelve Character studies. Join us next Sunday morning.

Starting next Sunday night, we are planning a Literary Series. Do you like poems and poets? Are you familiar with the Gospel messages in some of the great poems? We plan on having the poem recited, and making it the basis of a vital message. Next Sunday night we take the poem, "Each in his Own Tongue," by Herbert Carruth. And so such poems as Segler's, "I have a Rendezvous with Death," and "Columbus," and Kipling's "Lest we forget," and Henley's "Invictus," suggest themselves. The evening service at 7:30 P. M.

Thursday night at 7:30 P. M. Teachers' training group meeting. All are invited.

A Thought for The Week

Words in themselves are wonderful but dangerous. How glibly we use them, but how far-reaching their influence. Then add to the value of the words all the attending dangers in the way we say words; the places where we pause; the tone of voice and the expression of our face. The story is told of a Celtic mother who said to her son, "Run across the street and ask how old Mrs. Casey is," meaning to inquire after her venerable neighbor's health. But the boy put the emphasis on the wrong word and returned with the vicious answer, "Mother, Mrs. Casey says to tell you it's none of your business how old she is." No wonder Jesus said to His disciples, "Let your communications be yea, yea, and nay, nay, for whatsoever communication other than that is of evil." Jesus knew the power of words, and the danger in words. Therefore he advised laconic speech.

- Every house built with only ordinary materials leaks heat in these places:
- 1 Through doors
  - 2 Through windows
  - 3 Through the roof
  - 4 Through the walls

Four Places Where Heat Is Wasted

There need be only two.

Only about one-third of the costly furnace heat is used in most homes. Another one-third escapes, naturally, through the doors and windows.

That can not be helped.

But do you realize that the other one-third is wasted through solid walls and roofs in houses built with only the ordinary building materials?

That can be helped.

You can build your house with Celotex Insulating Lumber; a remarkable lumber made from the long, tough fibres of cane. It practically stops heat and saves this unnecessary fuel loss through walls and roof.

Comfort with economy

The comforts Celotex brings are a revelation to people who have been living in heat-leaking houses. Celotex will keep your home warm as toast when the mercury drops way down... refreshingly cool in summer... quieter all the year.

Moreover, the proper use of Celotex saves costly fuel. A one-third saving is average; in many houses it runs much higher. A smaller, less expensive heating plant, and smaller radiators are needed.

Look ahead!

Heat-leaking houses are fast going out-of-date now that Celotex has made it practical and inexpensive to build insulated homes. Get all the facts before you build or buy. Your comfort, your money are involved.

How Celotex is used

AS SHEATHING, Celotex supplies the insulation needed back of brick, stucco, clapboards or shingles; it makes building paper unnecessary. This construction gives you a stronger insulated house at no additional cost.

UNDER PLASTER, Celotex replaces lath for inside walls and ceilings. Plaster is applied directly to its surface. Here, Celotex costs but little more than lath and plaster, and it gives a stronger, insulated wall, free from lath marks.

IN HOUSES ALREADY BUILT Celotex is being used to line attics and basements. That gives a big measure of comfort and costs but little.

The big strong boards are nailed and sawed like wood lumber.

No wonder building authorities everywhere agree that Celotex has set a new standard in American building practice. They are warning people that five years from now heat-leaking houses will be as out-of-date as houses without electricity or running water.

In justice to yourself, let us tell you more about Celotex before you build or buy.

THIS IS THE TIME TO PREVENT FIRE LOSSES

Carelessness causes most fires. Every fifteen minutes someone's home catches fire.

Fifteen thousand burn to death each year in America.

Help prevent fire! Be careful!

The above are statements issued by the state fire marshal, and represent the reason for designating October 9 to 15, Fire Prevention Week.

As the days grow cooler, and fires are necessary in stoves, fireplaces and furnaces for comfort, the danger of losses increases. It is important therefore, that fires should be examined, cleaned, and repaired where necessary.

Not all losses of property and lives, by any means, are caused by defective fires. A frequent source of danger is rubbish collected in basements or in and around buildings. A general clean-up is an effective method of fire prevention.

Statistics show that over $1,000 worth of property was destroyed every minute, and a life was lost every 35 minutes last year through fires. Thirty million dollars in losses were caused by careless smokers. It should be remembered that there is always danger in the discarded cigarette or cigar stub.

Common suggestions on fire prevention include the following:

Keep matches in metal boxes where children cannot reach them.

Don't keep ashes in wooden boxes or deposit them against wooden buildings or partitions.

Don't change your electric wiring without consulting a competent electrician.

Don't hang electric light cords on nails.

Use metal protection under all stoves and protect woodwork where stoves or furnaces are close to walls.

Don't pass stove pipes through ceiling, roofs or wooden partitions.

Every open fireplace should have a screen.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to cleanse clothing near an open flame, light fire.

Don't use kerosene, benzine or naphtha in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire.

Don't use liquid polishes near open lights. Many such compounds contain inflammable oils.

Don't go into closets with lighted matches or candles.

It is evident that favorable action upon the suggestions by the general public would greatly decrease fire losses the coming year.

OUR COMMON CAUSE

This reforestation problem is a long ways from being settled. That is evident from the varied opinions of the public on this important problem.

But the problem will be solved. That is assured from the interest of the public. During the past few days meetings have been held in both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas looking toward some feasible plan. It has been suggested in both these meetings that the state be bonded to provide money for a reasonable and sensible campaign. As a result of these meetings, and others that will be held, the public and the law makers will be better informed.

Nature builds forests. She will continue with this work if allowed to do so. Protect natural processes of timber growth and you protect the forests of the future. Eliminate the artificial hazards to forestry first.

The greatest hazard is that of fire. Fire comes with roads, settlements, tourists, campers. A few hours of fire will destroy Nature's efforts of years to build again the stricken forests of the past.

Thus the first thing to do is to stamp out and beat out the fires. That is possible. There need be no fires over any extensive areas of land. All that is required is watchfulness, management, money. Provide the funds, secure the public cooperation and the forests will be kept green and growing.

What about the money? This paper cannot see why the burden of fire protection should fall entirely upon lands set aside for reforestation under the new laws. The question is raised as to whether proposed taxes on this character of land are not set at too high a figure to make the growing of trees an object. Every citizen in the state of Michigan is interested in keeping forests protected from fire.

I cannot pay you more at that time for my daughter finishes at Bristol this year and that costs a heap of money."

"I thought I could send you a check when I got my tobacco money, but it took all I could make and I was left with the Delco lights, as my wife did not have electricity to run the separator, the sewing machine and the vacuum cleaner. Then too, we had to build a shed for the Ford so we could put the new Cadillac in the garage, and build a concrete bridge over the brook in our front lot, as well as a new road, so we could get in and out better."

"I can't send you the corn money in the fall, because my son is going to college and, although the kids of today are very economical about hats and garters, still a coon skin coat costs the old man a lot and even just Ford comes rather high by the time they are decorated for college use."

"I might send you the hog money, but the Missus and I have planned a trip to Niagara in the fall and, after her working hard all these years, I think she deserves the trip. We can't go before fall for she is having the house redecorated and finished, taking out all the red plush and putting in over-stuffed cane and mahogany. This is a terrible strain on my finances, especially as the new well that was needed closer to the house and the up-to-date barn have to be paid for."

"All the farmers here are in a hard place financially, with strawberries this season at 75 cents a quart and the price of gasoline as it is. Then, too, there is an epidemic among the married women to have their plain gold wedding rings platinized and set with diamonds, and everybody is having their tonsils and teeth removed."

It is yet too early to gather comprehensive information regarding Michigan's new traffic law, which has removed the speed limit on highways, but has surrounded the drivers of automobiles with restrictions that are expected to cut down much of the reckless driving of the past. How accidents happen, and why, is contained in a report issued by the National Safety Council for 1925, which shows that there were 21,000 deaths from automobiles. The report of the council shows that in 35.6 per cent of the cases the drivers did not have right of way.

The remaining 15.2 per cent of the fatalities, although not occurring while the motorist was violating a traffic rule, are due to carelessness in a degree. Runaway cars are due to carelessness in setting the brakes or having them properly attended to. Backing in such a manner as to cause a fatal accident may be due to carelessness on the part of the driver.

Driving on the roadway may be due to carelessness on the part of the driver. Passing on a curve or hill may be due to carelessness on the part of the driver. The small number of fatal accidents attributed to this cause is surprising.

Judging from these figures, one might say that if the traffic laws were strictly enforced, and citizens were law abiding, the accident problem would be solved. Carelessness is as destructive an evil as law breaking. How to combat it is a difficult problem.

YOU OWE MORE THAN TAXES TO YOUR COMMUNITY.

In a recent address on "Civic Leadership, Development and Responsibility," Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison Company, of Chicago, said:

"I hold that every man owes something besides his taxes to the community in which he lives. The more he has been favored mentally and materially by fortune, the more he owes. In discharge of that debt, he is under obligation to do for the community something that he does not get paid for, something that he does not make money by. His obligation to do this is not just a once-in-a-while obligation; it is a continuing obligation, and while he does discharge of it should be limited only by his abilities and his opportunities."

"A true sense of civic responsibility springs from recognition of this obligation. Individual response to it produces the civic leadership that assures continuous, well balanced symmetrical community development—the development that provides for social and spiritual needs, so to speak, as well as for the physical and material needs of a community."

"It is to the men of constructive vision that we owe the welding of this continent into one homogeneous whole—the greatest amongst the modern creations of empire. It is to this constructive class that we owe the development of our great communities and our great businesses, and from them you should draw your inspiration for taking your share of civic responsibility and community service."

JURY FINDS MARKER GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Lyle McClain Sentenced to 10 Years in Ionia

Circuit Court is still in session as we go to press, with only one case having been completed. C. H. Mark-er, charged with assault, was found guilty by the jury after a long and stormy session. Prosecuting Attorney Ross of West Branch. E. M. Harris was counsel for the defense.

The case of Frank Millikin, charged with rape, is now on trial. Mr. Harris is counsel also in this case while Mr. Nellist is assisted by Mr. Ross.

One more criminal case is on the docket and ready for trial—The People vs. Roy Wells, charged with violation of the prohibition law.

At the arraignment of the cases at the opening of court, Lyle McClain of Ionia, charged with rape, entered a plea of guilty. Although only 17 years of age he was sentenced by Judge Smith to from 10 to 20 years in Ionia prison. The victim of his crime was a little girl of ten years. This is the second time McClain had been convicted of a similar offense and admitted that he had been arrested six times.

Farm Bureau Notes

R. D. Bailey, Co. Agricultural Agent

"The farmer who is in the best financial position today, and in the healthiest frame of mind, is the one who is focusing his attention on the problem of working efficiently his own farm rather than dreaming about what Congress will do to make farming more profitable."

Good Corn—Good Farm Home
Mr. Paul Reidel, in the neighborhood of Higgins Lake, 19 miles from here, called again at the county agent's office. He left a good ear of ripe, Yellow Dent corn, stating that he has two and one-half acres like it. Why shouldn't a lot of our farmers engage seed there?
Mr. Reidel mentioned, incidentally, that he is keeping his son in the common high school, and is completing a modern dwelling house, even though he does live on a farm. Besides other conveniences, the house contains a furnace, and is wired for electric lights before the lathing or plastering were done. We call this latter point, splendid foresight.

The family heard the Dempsey-Tunney fight splendidly over their radio. Someone in the family tunes in on the Agricultural College each noon.

Someone is Going To Make Some Money
Yes sir, some farmer is going to make more than ordinary profit on the few hogs he raises by calling at the county agent's office and getting a copy of the new bulletin he just secured from the Agricultural College, "Swine Feeding." We secured only six copies. The bulletin gives some short, snappy suggestions, 7 to 10 lines each, on each of the several feeds good for swine.

The rations suggested as best for the several stages of growth are very helpful, as for weanling pigs weighing 30 to 60 pounds; growing pigs, from 60 to 100 pounds; shoats, 100 to 150 pounds; hogs, from 150 to 225 pounds; breeding swine or sows with suckling pigs; mature sows (between suckling periods).
A good page, too, on "How much to feed, and how to feed it."

Two Other Good Ones
We have 5 or 6 copies each of bulletins on:

(1) Septic Tank, for the sewage on the farm. Pictures show just how to make the tank yourself, out of cement. Such things, with bath tubs, hot and cold water running into the kitchen are soon going to be common on farms.

(2) Simple Water Systems. My! The pictures are enough to make the housewife want to grasp the handle and see the water run! Lots of pictures! Any farmer can do the plumbing! Mr. George Annis and I saw the whole thing set up, and working, at the college during Farmers' Week. Especially planned for farm homes without furnace or water pressure. A simple turn of one valve lets all water run back out of pipes and range boiler, on cold nights, into cistern. We will bet that it will not be long before there will be several of these systems in use around here.

"Ma Just Set Her Foot Down
In a farm paper just examined today, we saw the above heading, used in describing how a certain farm woman secured some of the labor-saving devices that town folks have, like running water.

We have several farm kitchens in Crawford county into which the gas-cylinder engine or the windmill pumps water, and keeps a barrel full of clean, cool water ahead all the time, the overflow running out into the Rock tank.

"Seems as though"
It seems as if other women in the neighborhood knew of such a case they would insist on having water pumped into their kitchens, too.
The cost is trifling. In fact, I do not believe it is the cost that keeps other farm homes from having the water system.

Will Tell You Who
To anyone who will call at my office to inquire, I will tell the names of farm families into whose kitchen the lucky wife has water pumped.

Local Plumbers Helped
In a certain county the local plumbers helped sell the idea of running water, by simple water systems, to farm folks. We believe that would be a winning idea with plumbers and hardware dealers around here.

I'd Like to See—
Some plumber or hardware dealer set up in the window of his place of business a full sized outfit of this simple water system, as devised for farm homes, and some town homes, without furnace or water pressure. I will bet "dollars to doughnuts" it would be a drawing card!

Said One of These Plumbers—
"Well, of course, selling the farmer modern plumbing is not as easy a job as selling the city man who is connected up with city sewers and water mains," said Mr. Best. "Yet, in the course of the ten years we have been educating the farm trade, the results have been surprising. In the little community of Payson, there are now fully 90 per cent of the homes equipped with bathrooms and water systems, and practically every farm house around there is so equipped. All these installations have come in the last ten years as the result of paying attention to the farmer demands instead of ignoring them because they are harder to install and service. As a result, there are probably few farm communities in America that stand higher in health and happiness."

What She Would Buy with $100-$1000
Here is what one Nebraska woman would do if she had from $100 to $1,000 to spend as she pleases—and she might be any one of thousands of farm women all over the country. Home conveniences are her idea of luxury.

"I would call a bathtub a real luxury," wrote the Nebraska housewife. "You may understand what I mean when I say 'luxury,' as I am the mother of five children ranging from 2 to 13 years in age. Oh, the awful trial on one's nerves, going up to the pump on the hill, carrying water down the hill, putting it in the boiler on the kitchen stove, and lifting it down on the floor."
"The water isn't fit for all of them, so back up the hill I trudge, carrying more water for the wash boiler for more baths."

Then there is the woman in Maryland discovered by the Rural Engineering specialists of the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, who walked a distance of 440 miles a year—equal to the distance between Chicago and Omaha—carrying water from the pump to the house. There is yet work to be done in emancipating the American farm wife from her slavery to the water

Sent to Them All
Last week we sent the following card to all farmers in the county. If anyone falls in his duty, or is "asleep at the switch," we do not want it to be the agent:
DO YOU WANT BETTER POTATOES?

Potato digging will soon be here. Perhaps you have begun. It has been found that one great means of improving potatoes is to save next spring's seed while digging this fall. Save the smooth, ideal potatoes each day, when picking up, out of the largest yielding hills. Some set a standard of saving from hills that yield six or more good ones. Do not save coarse, oversized ones. Select seed that has the shape of the variety you planted. For instance, if you like Russet Rural, save a rather blocky, almost "square-cornered" seed, but not long ones, for true Russet Rural are not long. Save seed that look like the seed catalogue pictures of the variety you plant. If your potatoes are a mixed, scabby, bad-shaped lot, it would be well to start new next spring with some fresh "seconds" from certified seed. You will find that you can greatly improve the appearance and the yield of your potatoes by hill selection in the fall. Before planting, soak them in the corrosive sublimation solution to prevent scab and some other diseases.

MORE SPEED NEEDED IN LIMING PROGRAM

Correcting Soil Acidity Will Increase Profits on Michigan Farms

At the present rate of applying lime, 115 years will be needed to correct the acidity of Michigan soils, according to an announcement of the soils department at Michigan State College.
The soils specialists estimate that there are 5,500,000 acres of crops grown in this state and that 5,500,000 acres of these crops are grown on acid soils. One application of lime increased the yield of wheat on a Cass county field 6.4 bushels per acre each year for a ten year period, illustrating the value of correcting soil acidity.

Experience throughout the State has shown that it is better practice to apply lime at least six months before seeding a legume on a field. Each farmer is advised to get prices on all forms of lime and use the one that he can obtain at the least expense.

More organic matter as well as lime is required by Michigan soils. The organic matter can be supplied by plowing down green manure crops such as sweet clover, ordinary clovers, or rye.

MICHIGAN BUSINESS REVIEW

Written for the Crawford Avalanche
(By Wayne W. Putnam, Assistant Secretary, Union Trust Co., Detroit.)

Although showing a substantial volume, business during September did not reach the proportions indicated a month ago. Retail trade was checked by prolonged warm weather and manufacturing activity was retarded, in part, by further delay of the Ford industries in getting into production. Cooler weather is needed to bring about a more business-like tone and to put trade in its autumn stride. Broadly viewed, the economic situation is reasonably good and promises to remain so until the end of the year at least.

Favorable weather during the past month was of much help to late crops resulting in additional income for many farmers on whom an early fall would have worked a hardship. Good progress, on the whole, was made by the corn crop during the past six weeks. Although the cotton crop is nearly a third smaller than the record output of last season, the growers will receive more for it in the aggregate. Canada, one of our best foreign customers, has had exceptionally good crops this year. The soft coal strike has come to an end. Rapid recovery is taking place in the area devastated by the Mississippi floods. Additional favorable elements are the relative steadiness in commodity prices, low inventories, high real wages, comparatively few labor disputes, and much confidence in the general situation on the part of the public.

Operating schedules of Michigan industries, as a whole, during September were at or close to normal. Overtime is reported in only a few lines. Reports of subnormal operations were relatively few in number. Returns from the great majority of cities show manufacturing to be on an even keel and the general outlook encouraging. Southwestern Michigan reports industrial activity slightly better than a year ago. Detroit's non-automotive industries have been making a good showing as have also a number of its motor plant lumbering and mining in the Upper Peninsula are improving, employment is picking up, and a much better tone has followed in the wake of a record volume of tourist business. Employment is on the increase in Jackson, Port Huron, Atlanta, Charlotte, Harrison, Ishpeming, Lapeer, Monroe, Muskegon and Wyandotte. A high plane of activity prevails at Flint. Pontiac reports future prospects very bright.

Automotive output in September, according to early estimates, was between 10 and 12 per cent lower than the production for August which amounted to 308,040 cars and trucks. October production probably will fall below that for September. Motor output usually tapers off during the fourth quarter, but this customary trend may be altered this year by the bringing out of the new Ford car, which will put in its appearance, it is now said, the latter part of this month or early in November. Production schedules will start off with a few hundred units a day and will be increased as rapidly as possible in order to supply dealers with sample cars during the month of November. Estimated freight car requirements for all other makes for the last quarter of 1927 exceed those for the corresponding period of a year ago by 18 per cent. Care is being taken against loading dealers with more cars than they can handle, and production schedules are, accordingly, in keeping with the volume of sales. Used car stocks are growing larger and present an increasingly difficult problem for the dealer. The total annual capacity of the industry is now placed at 7,800,000 units.
Weather conditions during Septem-

Concrete Pavements Are Safe for Night Driving, Too

No wonder motorists everywhere are enthusiastic boosters for Concrete Streets and Roads.

They are safe by day, and safe by night—rigid and unyielding. They are also a pleasing light gray in color—even on a starless, moonless night you can hold your path surely and steadily when you motor on Concrete.

You want your pavements to be an investment—not an expense. You want to receive dividends in service and satisfaction. That means Portland Cement Concrete Pavement.

FACTS—AND THE OPEN MIND

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

TO GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes. Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

OUT OF such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac—all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire. Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.

Our school census completed last week shows four hundred and nineteen pupils of school age in this district.

Mrs. T. E. Douglas of Grayling spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Husted.—W. B. Herald.

Charles Cowell took the civil service examination with four others in Chicago a short time ago, and was the only one of the five who passed, and he has been offered a position in the U. S. Treasury department.

Grayling boys always get there.

Mr. James E. Spencer of St. Clair, Mich., has located at Frederic, and will supply a long felt want by establishing a newspaper in that village, to be called "The Frederic Times," independent in politics. He is welcomed to our country and we wish him success.

A peculiar condition exists in Montmorency county, resulting from the Republican nominating convention. On an informal ballot for treasurer F. Cameron received 12 votes and A. McQueen 10. A formal ballot was ordered, resulting in a reversal of the figures. Both candidates claim the nomination, and the Attorney General has been appealed to for a decision.

Last Saturday, Arthur Brink let his little girl ride down town with him on the trolley, and left her on the seat while he stepped into the post office, when "Dan" started to run away.

The child held to the seat until they reached the front of S. H. & Co's store, where she was thrown backward on the platform and to the ground between the platform and the wheel. Fortunately she escaped with a severe fright and a few minor bruises, but it was a close call.

A reception was given Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Giddie at the hospitable home of N. Michelson. Tuesday evening, which proves to some extent the popularity of the pastor and his wife. The large house was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the guests were by no means confined to the members of his church or congregation. It rather seemed as though everybody was represented there to pay their respects. Elegant refreshments were served and social mirth and music reigned until a late hour. Everybody was delighted and the bonds of friendship welded during the last year's pastorate must have been strengthened.

The largest real estate transaction ever closed in this county was recorded in the Register's office this week, transferring over 4,000 acres of timber land from W. Ward to Salling, Hanson & Co., of this village.

A few years ago West Branch painted that he possessed a "spanking machine." He never refuses to give assistance when it is needed. If the pupils do their part they are assured a good school.

The English Literature class is reading the play, Julius Caesar. Miss Robinson is the teacher and does well by the class.

Laura London was absent Monday and Tuesday, visiting country schools with the school commissioner.

Eighth Grade
They have reading and spelling included in their studies this year.

Seventh Grade
For the month of September Laura Larson, Anna Nelson, Laura Furlong and Maggie Hemmingson received Rank 1. Louise Woodward, Belle Dyer, Eleanor Woodfield, Vera Richardson, Ralph Claggett, and Fred Rasmussen received Rank 2.

The grammar room pupils have added to their possessions, a knife to sharpen their pencils, and a looking glass in which to see themselves as others see them.

Sixth Grade
During September, Nellie Shannahan and Anna Rasmussen received Rank 1, and Effa Enervoldson, Emma Goupil, Maude Pillsbury, Alice McCune, Daisy Crotteau and Ethelyn Woodfield received Rank 2.

The ten girls who went into the high school room behaved so well that Mr. Bradley told them they were more quiet than the boys.

With an enrollment of seventy-two for the first month in the sixth and seventh grades, there was an average of 70.

Fourth and Fifth Grades
Clyde Hum, of the fifth grade has gone to Pennsylvania for a month's visit.

The two grades give exercises on Pioneer Day which is tomorrow, in the high school room. Dr. Palmer will address the pupils; Mrs. Woodward will sing and Mr. Bradley will give a violin solo. The patrons and others are cordially invited to attend.

Second Grade
Agnes Rasmussen had sore eyes, so was absent from school the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Langevin and Mrs. W. Havens visited the school last Thursday. We are always glad to have company and would be pleased to have parents and others visit us more often.

We are pleased to see Frank and Duane, Cressy, Edward King and Axel Jorgenson in school again.

A PLEA FOR CAPTIVE BEARS
Miss Ella B. King, of Providence, Rhode Island, writes:

"Is there not something that can be done to alleviate the sufferings of captive bears, chained up and exploited to attract customers to road houses and tourist camps? While touring in New Hampshire last summer at one place, a cub bear was found chained in the terrific heat and running around, obviously in great distress."

"At another place a bear was forced to climb a pole when his physical condition appeared to make it a torture to do so."

"To see these fur-clad animals out in the heat, chained and with but little space in which to move, is appalling. Cannot something be done to abolish this unnecessary cruelty?"

There's a cave in the rocks where the pine trees grow, And two little cubs, too young to roam, Are waiting for food, while the blizzards blow; The food that their Mummy will soon bring home.

There's a big skin stretched at the Trapper's hut, To dry in the sun and wind and rain; In the cabin there's bear-meat, freshly cut, Mummy will never come home again.

Slowing Up?

Waste Poisons in the Blood Make One Thirst and Inefficient.

Do you rise lame and stiff? Drag through the day, listless and depressed? Evening find you all worn out?

Have you given any thought to your kidneys?

Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one tired and inefficient, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of sluggish kidney action is scanty or burning urination. Assist the kidneys with Doan's Pills.

Doan's have been used since 1885. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Miss Agnes Hanson, who had been spending her week end in Detroit, has also returned and resumed her duties at Sorenson Bros. store.

Mrs. George A. Collen was agreeably surprised on her birthday anniversary, which fell on September 30, when about thirty ladies and gentlemen came to her home to spend the evening and to celebrate the event. A pot luck lunch was served and the guest of honor presented with a beautiful gift in memory of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. John Green and Postmaster Jess Green, and Mrs. Bernice Bayne of Roscommon were out of town guests.

Arthur McIntyre, son of Mrs. Ella McIntyre of this city, is an instructor in the Pennsylvania State college, and holds the seat in forestry. He is a graduate of Grayling school and M. S. C. Lansing, and for the past two years has been instructor of forestry in Arizona. Arthur says that he was kept so busy this summer in the woods with groups of forestry students that he was unable to take his vacation. He had planned to return to his boyhood home in Grayling to visit his mother and other friends.

The local golfers are enthusiastic over a championship match that is now being held at the Grayling Golf club, the prize being a very handsome silver cup that is being offered by Marvin Hanson. This is a championship match, and the prize is to go to the player who wins on the merits of his playing. About fifteen players have entered the contest and the battle promises to be warm before it is concluded. Eighteen holes will be played in the preliminaries and 36 in the playoff and finals. The cup is of handsome design about eight inches high and has inscribed "Grayling Golf Club Champion, 1927." The trophy will go to the winner and will become his permanent possession.

Home owners are finding a big saving in fuel in the use of Celotex for keeping out the cold and holding in the heat. Attic roofs lined with Celotex keep the cold from coming in through the shingles and hold the heat in the building. The heat from a building that melts the snows on the roof is wasted and fuel costs money. If you're in that kind of a house you are paying out real money for wasted heat that might better be retained. Basement walls lined with Celotex also keeps the cold out and the heat in. Look over your homes and see if they lack adequate cold-proof linings. If so, it will pay you to fit them. Celotex is sold by the Grayling Box Co. Ask them for further information.

The finest improvement that has been made on Main street since the building of the hotel and Salling stores is beyond doubt the new front for the H. Hanson cafe. The building was extended forward about six feet and veneered with brick two stories high. This takes in the Cowell barber shop as well as the Cafe. Fine large plate glass windows and upper prism lights have been put in for both places and a six-foot canopy extends along the entire front just over the lower floor windows. This fine new front adds greatly to the better appearance of our main street business places. The interior of the places will be refurnished and decorated and new lighting arrangements installed both inside and outside the cafe and barber shop, including several lights beneath the canopy, and a fine new electric sign stands out from the cafe. The brick is of tan color and is set in dark mortar making this a very handsome store front. The finishing touches have yet to be put on, that will make these two business places very much up-to-date. "Dad" is to be congratulated upon his enterprising.

Editors: Marius Hanson, Lebraed Harder, Ellen Speck.

Boys and girls Glee clubs have been organized under the direction of Miss Salling. New song books have been bought, so the clubs will have a great number of new songs to learn.

The school has given the boys a room in the basement to be used as a club room. With Mr. Cushman in charge, a boys' club will be organized so as to give the boys a meeting place and a means of amusement.

A high school orchestra is being organized under the direction of Mrs. B. E. Smith. We hope this orchestra will make good, as Grayling is without one at present.

A ten-cents-a-week plan has been put into effect whereby students are entitled to attend all athletic activities by paying this small sum to the Athletic Association.

Bicycle Hints Which We Dedicate to Boy Scouts

1. When you fall off your bike, forget it. If you fall off again, remember that "practice makes perfect."

2. If by accident you knock off some paint, remember that you will have to repaint it anyway next spring.

3. If you want to ride your bike on the sidewalk on Main street, go ahead, you can tell "Tiny" why you did it.

4. When on your bike, if it should depart from the road and make for a telephone pole, don't try to stop "him," "he" knows where "he" wants to go.

5. If the bike has a tendency to climb the said pole, don't try to persuade him not to. He will find out soon enough that he can't. (So will you!)

6. When you puncture a tire, remember you're helping the manufacturer to sell another tube of "pre-ventive," and are doing him a good turn.

7. If you have no gauge to tell how much air is in your bike tire, keep on pumping. If the tire blows up there is enough air in it.

8. Trick riding is great, but forget doctor bills.

9. (Last, but not least). If you don't own a bike, you are missing it. Borrow your neighbor's, he's sure to miss it.

I was tied up and unable to move. Horrors! The express train was coming nearer and nearer. It is a fearful death to be crushed by a train. Took, took! The train came on; I closed my eyes, and—happy thought—I

END INDIANA'S COAL STRIKE; IOWA BALKS

Hoosier Agreement Is Similar to That in Illinois; Affects 125,000.

Terre Haute, Ind.—The Indiana coal operators and miners reached an agreement. The agreement is similar to the one reached in Illinois, virtually the only change being the substituting of the name "Indiana" for "Illinois" in the pact.

The agreement will be in effect until April 1, and calls for the same wages as the Illinois agreement, $7.50 a day for day work and 1.08 a ton for loaders.

Under the agreement the mines can open at once, but it is not expected production will be increased much at the start, as the mines will have to find markets for their coal, and many mines are being operated on "work pending settlement" agreements.

Indianapolis.—Agreements to continue work at the outset of the bituminous coal suspension last April 1 and settlements reached by miners and operators within the last week affect roughly 125,000 union miners, according to computations made at the headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America here.

Four states, Michigan, Montana, Wyoming and Washington, remained at work throughout the six months. The number of miners normally employed is: Wyoming, 7,000; Montana, 6,000; Washington, 4,000, and Michigan, 2,000.

The aggregate weekly production of those four fields in the week ending September 17 was approximately 280,000 tons, according to bureau of mines figures.

Seventy-two thousand union miners were returned to work by the Chicago settlement effected October 1. Illinois production in the week ending September 17 was 237,000 tons. Normal production, now that the union mines reopen, should soon approach the former average of 1,500,000 tons a week.

Indiana miners who will be restored to employment through an Indiana settlement number roughly 25,000. The Hoosier production September 17 was 800,000 tons. This will not be increased as sharply as the Illinois tonnage by a settlement, inasmuch as many Indiana mines were being operated on "work pending settlement" agreements.

Nine thousand miners were affected by the recent Iowa settlement, and their production soon should reach close to the 200,000 ton mark. The Kansas City agreement affects about 80,000 men in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas, although some Arkansas and Oklahoma operators withdrew.

The union is not sufficiently well organized in the southern states and in the nonunion fields of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee for the settlement to affect the situation in those districts.

Union figures indicate that 100,000 union men still are out in the Ohio, western Pennsylvania and central Pennsylvania fields.

Des Moines, Ia.—Special deputies and police officials appointed during disturbances of two weeks ago, are still on duty in Appanoose county, and operators indicated that mines employing 8,000 miners would not reopen for production under the terms of the state-wide settlement effected here.

The Appanoose county fields are the largest in the state, having produced approximately 1,000,000 tons two years ago.

According to the settlement which the Appanoose operators, by a vote of 14 to 10, have refused to ratify, the miners were to resume work on the wage scale of the Jacksonville agreement, which provides for a daily wage of $7.50 and $12.14 per ton for diggers. This scale was to hold until April 1, 1928, at which time a new agreement, fixed on a competitive basis, is to take effect.

The operators maintain that working the mines under the agreement, which is practically the same as that reached in Chicago, would allow no profit. Several small mines about Centerville, the county seat of Appanoose county, and the center of the disturbances of the past week, are open, supplying local markets.

MAURICE G. HINDUS

One of the speakers who is to address the general meetings in eight of the nine districts of the Michigan Education Association the latter part of this month is Maurice G. Hindus.

His subject will be "Asia Aflame." Mr. Hindus was born in a Russian village, but graduated from Colgate University and Harvard. Since then he has attained high distinction as a speaker and as a writer, and as one of the sanest and most constructive thinkers of the country. In 1926 he spent five months in Russia, Poland, Germany, England, and France. He is the first English-speaking journalist who has made a first hand study of the Russian peasants since the overthrow of the Czar. He went from village to village, on horseback and on foot, and lived and worked with the peasants in the fields, in order to learn their real reaction to the revolution, the Soviet government, and to things American. He is a keen interpreter and imaginative observer, and an exceptionally fluent and convincing speaker.

In early May of this year Maurice Hindus sailed from New York on a four months tour of Europe and Asia to gather up-to-the-minute impressions of political and economical affairs on the continent. His ultimate destination was China. He went from Germany to Russia and into Moscow, arriving there on the very day that England broke off diplomatic relations with the Soviet government. From there he went into Siberia, then through the Buryat country, and then crossed into Mongolia. From there he went into Manchuria and finally arrived in northern China. From northern China he traveled down into the southern Chinese country with headquarters at Canton. His mission was to get an accurate appraisal of existing conditions in Russia and China during the summer months of 1927.

Mr. Hindus is now enroute from Russia to America. He will land at Seattle about the middle of October and come directly to Michigan to fulfill his lecture engagements with the Michigan Education Association.

HAIL THE "CHISELER"

The "lounge lizard" is passe! Long live the chiseler.

Bryant Washburn is responsible for the introduction on the screen of a new film characterization he has termed a "chiseler." In "Breakfast at Sunrise," in which he has a featured role in support of Constance Talmadge, Washburn, for the first time, reveals this new masculine type.

A "chiseler," explains the actor, is a male gold digger. He differs from the lounge lizard in that the latter is content to spread himself comfortably over a davenport or soft chair and trust to good fortune that a wealthy woman will see and like him.

The "chiseler," according to Bryant, is a go-getter. He looks upon every woman as a prospect for his wealth. He wants only her money and he pursues wealthy women as relentlessly as feminine gold-diggers chase "butter and eggs."

"Breakfast at Sunrise" was directed by Mal St. Clair, recently voted one of the ten best directors for the second consecutive year. The picture was made for First National release.

Eight naturalists in New Jersey went out into the wilds the other day and baked twenty-four poisonous snakes after three hours search. We know a fellow who took two drinks of synthetic booze and caught more reptiles than that without leaving his room.

Notre Dame Grid Star

Notre Dame is represented by an excellent football team this fall, but they lack beef, while they have speed to burn. With a squad numbering 300 men, Rockne has a squad rich in reserve. Our photograph shows Capt. John P. Smith, who was one of the outstanding forwards in 1926 in the Middle West, and is playing left guard.

MIDLAND SIGNS UP

The Board of Supervisors of Midland county passed a resolution on June 30, 1927, providing "That the matter of tuberculin testing of cattle as a county project be referred to the committee on Agriculture with full authority to act." Accordingly, this committee, at meeting held at the Court House September 15, voted to adopt the plan of Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry and the State Department of Agriculture and requested that Midland county be placed on the waiting list.

This leaves only five of the 83 counties in Michigan which have not passed favorably on the bovine tuberculosis eradication project.

WHY NOT EQUITY AND FAIR DEALING?

Both political parties seem to be trying to stir up the tariff question. If politics could be eliminated from the tariff it would become a simple business proposition.

The tariff serves two primary purposes: First, it prevents cheap labor foreign products, both farm and manufactured, from being dumped on the American market at the expense of the home producer.

Second, it forces the foreigner who has the privilege of selling in the best market in the world, to pay a tax to our government, thus reducing our other taxes by that amount (some $500,000,000 a year).

We do not want to shut out foreign competition, neither do we want to give it an advantage over the home producer.

Equity and fair dealing should govern in establishing tariff schedules, rather than partisan politics or favoritism for any class or product.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Most of us think of thrift as a modest virtue through which people save money, take care of their health and try to employ their time to the best advantage.

But how few of us think of it also in terms of the great material progress going on all about us.

Because somebody saved, more than $5,000,000,000 in new buildings are being erected in the United States this year. Because somebody saved, millions upon millions of dollars worth of new highway construction is going on today all over this country. Somebody had to save to build our railroads, to provide agricultural implements for our farmers, to construct our electric light systems and power plants, and build our rapid transit lines.

These aspects of material progress did not just grow of their own volition, or come into being through the working of some magic force.

Through the slow, steady, systematic saving of the people of this nation all of this was made possible, and all the material progress the United States shall ever attain will be based on this same patient thrift of the people.

Let the people of this nation ever cease to save and the result will be immediate stagnation and eventual ruin.

Thrift is not merely a modest virtue to be encouraged by happy phrases and apt platitudes.

It is a tremendous necessity. It is the foundation upon which the entire structure of our national development is built. Happily we are coming more and more to a genuine appreciation of its serious importance.

ANNUAL E. M. T. MEET AND DINNER IS SCHEDULED

The annual business meetings and joint Good Fellowship banquet of the NorthEastern Michigan Development Bureau and the East Michigan Tourist Association will take place at Bay City, Thursday, October 27. The business meetings, including the elections of officers will be held in the afternoon at the Log Cabin office and the banquet will follow in the evening at the Hotel Wenonah.

All cares will be shelved after the business meeting and the customary feast of reason and flow of soul will be outstanding at the dinner. The dinner is something of an institution. The hackneyed and stereotyped are always absent, the only concession, made to formalities being the scheduling of a number of good speakers.

One of the planned features this year is the utilization of a half dozen toastmasters instead of a single toastmaster.

A number of good speakers have been secured for the affair, at least one of them being a man of national reputation.

VALUE OF NEWSPAPERS RECOGNIZED

A. A. Anderson, Secretary of the Pacific Coast Building-Loan Association, in an address at the Pacific States savings and loan conference, recommended newspaper advertising as the most effective and economical means of reaching the public. Further, he urged that the building-loan associations throughout the United States should have a fund of at least $1,000,000 for such a campaign.

As Mr. Anderson knows, it has been fully demonstrated that the newspaper stands by itself as a carrier of messages to the greatest possible number of people. It is the only medium that is sure to reach the citizens of a community and be read. This fact is being more fully appreciated every day.

The smaller city dailies and country weeklies are the great medium for reaching the masses of the people who represent the majority of the reading and buying power of this nation.
